The Exquisite Balance Of Form & Function

Kitchen Design & Consulting, Inc., was founded by Lois Kennedy, in 1990, out of her desire to provide a more specialized service to her clients. Kennedy was driven by the love of the creative process rather than a competitive need to sell a product.

Design, functional space, excellence in craftsmanship and materials, and uncompromising service are the ingredients that set Kitchen Design & Consulting, Inc. apart. The firm specializes in creative, innovative design, skillfully executed with style, finesse and architectural impact. The main objective is to create a totally unique look for each endeavor.

Kennedy's reputation for thoughtful and creative design concepts, complemented by her thorough execution of details, has won her a loyal clientele. With formal training in architecture and interior design, and a degree in fine arts from University of Maryland, Kennedy possesses a keen ability to understand the particular concerns of the design community. She has earned the respect of architects and designers who rely on her as a valuable resource.

Adding to the success of Kitchen Design & Consulting, Inc., is Janis Magnuson who joined the firm in 1997, bringing over 16 years' experience specializing in kitchen design.

As a designer, she successfully orchestrates the balance between form and function, while expressing her clients' tastes and lifestyles. Janis has a degree in home economics and interior design from Ohio University, is a certified kitchen designer and a licensed interior designer in the District of Columbia.

To Kennedy and Magnuson, each project represents a new set of challenges providing an opportunity for a unique creation... a dynamic process of give and take between the client and designer, forged until that special relationship emerges. While each kitchen is a reflection of the client's personal tastes, it must be absolutely functional and timeless in its appeal.

Form meets function in the most gracious and innovative way at Kitchen Design & Consulting, Inc.

The design studio is located in Vienna, Virginia, and is open by appointment only.
